DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The specification is objected to as documents have been improperly incorporated by reference. In particular, the specification states:

All references disclosed herein are incorporated by reference in their entirety.

Such omnibus language fails to specify what specific information applicant seeks to incorporate by reference and similarly fails to teach with detailed particularity just where that specific information is to be found in each of the cited documents.

Attention is also directed to MPEP 608.01(p)I, which, in pertinent part, is reproduced below:

Mere reference to another application, patent, or publication is not an incorporation of anything therein into the application containing such reference for the purpose of the disclosure required by 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph. In re de Seversky, 474 F.2d 671, 177 USPQ 144 (CCPA 1973). In addition to other requirements for an application, the referencing application should include an identification of the referenced patent, application, or publication. Particular attention should be directed to specific portions of the referenced document where the subject matter being incorporated may be found. (Emphasis added)

As set forth In Ex parte Raible, 8 USPQ2d 1707, (BPAI, 1998)

The examiner is of the opinion that the general incorporation by reference of the Bentley disclosure in appellant's specification is insufficient to support the specific disputed limitations of the present claims in the manner required by section 112 of the statute. We agree

* * *

We believe that the doctrine of incorporation by reference is of no avail to appellant in this regard since there is no specific indication in the instant specification of the particular features disclosed by Bentley which correspond to those intended for use in the here-claimed device; nor does the specification identify the specific portions of the patent which appellant may have intended to rely upon to supplement his disclosure. The purpose of incorporation by reference in an application of matter elsewhere written down is for economy, amplification, or clarity of exposition, by means of an incorporating statement clearly identifying the subject matter which is incorporated and where it is to be found. In re de Seversky , 474 F.2d 671, 177 USPQ 144 , (CCPA 1973).

Accordingly, the cited documents are not considered to have been properly incorporated by reference and as such, have not been considered with any effect towards their fulfilling, either in part or in whole, the enablement, written description, or best mode requirements of 35 USC 112, first paragraph.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 118 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Attention is directed to the decision in University of Rochester v. G.D. Searle & Co. 68 USPQ2D 1424 (Fed. Cir. 2004) at 1428:

To satisfy the written-description requirement, the specification must describe every element of the claimed invention in sufficient detail so that one of ordinary skill in the art would recognize that the inventor possessed the claimed invention at the time of filing. Vas-Cath, 935 F.3d at 1563; see also Lockwood v. American Airlines, Inc., 107 F.3d 1565, 1572 [41 USPQ2d 1961] (Fed. Cir. 1997) (patent specification must describe an invention and do so in sufficient detail that one skilled in the art can clearly conclude that “the inventor invented the claimed invention”); In re Gosteli, 872 F.2d 1008, 1012 [10 USPQ2d 1614] (Fed. Cir. 1989) (“the description must clearly allow persons of ordinary skill in the art to recognize that [the inventor] invented what is claimed”). Thus, an applicant complies with the written-description requirement “by describing the invention, with all its claimed limitations, not that which makes it obvious,” and by using

Art Unit: 1634

“such descriptive means as words, structures, figures, diagrams, formulas, etc., that set forth the claimed invention.” Lockwood, 107 F.3d at 1572.

4. For convenience, claim 118 is reproduced below.

118. (Currently amended) The isolated nucleic acid molecule of claim 67, ~~which wherein the~~ nucleic acid molecule codes for a polypeptide ~~that which, or a portion of which,~~ binds an MHC molecule to form a complex recognized by an autologous antibody or lymphocyte, ~~or a portion of which polypeptide binds an MHC molecule to form a complex recognized by an autologous antibody or lymphocyte.~~

5. A review of the disclosure fails to locate where there is a description of the region(s) of polypeptide encoded by SEQ ID NO: 681 and which “binds an MHC molecule to form a complex recognized by an autologous antibody or lymphocyte, or a portion of which polypeptide binds an MHC molecule to form a complex recognized by an autologous antibody or lymphocyte.”

A review of the disclosure also fails to teach in sufficient detail what amino acid substitutions could be made and the polypeptide would still bind to said MHC. Rather than provide a full, clear and complete description of the genus of nucleic acids encompassed by he claims, it appears that applicant is seeking to rely upon obviousness to satisfy the written description requirement. Obviousness, however, cannot be relied upon for satisfaction of the written description requirement. In support of this position, attention is directed to the decision in University of California v. Eli Lilly and Co. (Fed. Cir. 1997) 43 USPQ2d at 1405, citing Lockwood v. American Airlines Inc. (Fed. Cir. 1997) 41 USPQ2d at 1966:

Recently, we held that a description which renders obvious a claimed invention is not sufficient to satisfy the written description requirement of that invention.

Art Unit: 1634

6. While claim 67 is limited to segments of 24 nucleotides, the specification does not provide an adequate written description of just which 24mers (or longer fragments) would in fact be useful. It is not enough that the sequence be disclosed, or the fragments encompassed by the claim must each have utility. The specification has not identified which of the 24mers, or longer fragments, have utility.

7. For the above reasons, and in the absence of convincing evidence to the contrary, claim 67 and 118 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

9. Claim 67 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by STN, Registry Number 135992-22-2.

For convenience, claim 67 is reproduced below.

67. (Currently amended) An isolated nucleic acid molecule selected from the group consisting of

- (a) a nucleic acid molecule comprising a fragment of SEQ ID NO:681 of at least [[12]] 24 nucleotides, and
- (b) complements of (a).

Art Unit: 1634

10. For purposes of examination, claim 67 has been interpreted as encompassing any nucleic acid that comprises a sequence of at least 24 nucleotides as found in SQ ID NO: 681, as well as compliments of same.

11. STN, Registry Number 135992-22-2 teaches explicitly of a double stranded DNA that comprises just such a sequence. The underlined sequence corresponds with a sequence of at least 24 bases found at the 3' region of SEQ ID NO: 681. As seen in the printout, this sequence was disclosed in 1995

12. Accordingly, and in the absence of convincing evidence to the contrary, claim 67 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by STN, Registry Number 135992-22-2.

Conclusion

13. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

14. A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
